INTRODUCTION

Since its founding, Covington & Burling LLP has been committed not only to the highest professional standards of representation but also to public service. The firm's pro bono program has long been acknowledged as preeminent in the legal community. Over the years, the firm has received recognition both nationally and locally for its contributions to the legal needs of persons and organizations of limited means. The American Lawyer Magazine has ranked Covington's pro bono practice among the top three firms for 15 of the past 19 years.

Covington lawyers work on a wide variety of pro bono projects. Much of our work reflects the firm's tradition of service to surrounding local communities – providing legal services to economically disadvantaged individuals and families in our communities. The firm also has a long-standing commitment to systemic reform projects, including class action litigation in prison reform, public housing, mental health and juvenile justice matters. Our pro bono program includes transactional and litigation work, and offers the firm's lawyers practicing in Washington, D.C., New York, San Francisco, San Diego, Silicon Valley, London, Brussels and Beijing opportunities to be involved in a wide range of substantive legal issues.

Covington is especially proud of its rotation programs in Washington, D.C., which allow attorneys and staff to work for six months at three local legal services organizations: Neighborhood Legal Services Program (NLSP), the Children's Law Center (CLC), and Bread for the City (BFTC). For over 40 years, the firm has sent attorneys, paralegals and secretaries on six-month shifts to NLSP, where they have helped indigent residents with a full range of civil legal problems, including housing and family law. CLC and BFTC are more recent additions to the firm's rotation program. At CLC, one lawyer and a paralegal work full-time handling custody and adoption cases. Associates at BFTC work half-time, chiefly on landlord/tenant cases, while they handle a reduced workload at the firm.

Since 1996, the firm has committed substantial resources to the children of the District of Columbia through its Child Welfare Initiative. A major focus of the Initiative is the firm's partnership with our neighboring public high school, Cardozo Senior High School. Activities with Cardozo students include a firm-based Saturday Academy and a mock trial competition. Under the Initiative, we place special emphasis on handling child welfare cases, both through our CLC rotation program and in our regular pro bono work. We also formed the Covington & Burling Public School Project, Inc., a nonprofit offering educational enrichment grants to teachers and staff of the District's public schools.

Our annual Charles F.C. Ruff Awards Ceremony is held each July at Covington to recognize those attorneys who performed 50 or more hours of pro bono work during the previous 12-month period. In 2011, the 50-hour honorees accounted for over half of the firm's attorneys. The firm's pro bono program is coordinated by the firm's Pro Bono Counsel, Kelly Voss, and its Pro Bono Managers, Sharmaine Heng, Allison Harris and Kathleen Kelly Janus. They actively seek pro bono opportunities and help to match new matters with our lawyers' interests.

The following recent cases are illustrative of the firm's pro bono docket:

Challenge to Racial Discrimination in Arizona. Since 2010, together with the ACLU of Arizona, the ACLU Immigrants' Rights Project and the Mexican American Legal Defense and Education Fund (MALDEF), a California-based Covington team has worked on a nationally publicized racial profiling case brought in the wake of "crime suppression" sweeps conducted in Arizona by the Maricopa County Sheriff's Office (MCSO), under a stated policy to "go after illegals, not the crime first." These sweeps have resulted in disproportionate numbers of Latinos being stopped or arrested and have created a climate of fear among the County's Latinos, most of whom are legally in the United States. The named plaintiffs in Ortega Melendres v. Arpaio, all Latinos who are citizens or legally present in the United States, were treated differently based on their race and/or ethnicity, as part of the MCSO's self-declared campaign against illegal immigration. Plaintiffs contend that Latino drivers and passengers in Maricopa County are unconstitutionally targeted for investigation for potential immigration violations and are subjected to pretextual vehicle stops, detentions, questioning, searches, and other forms of law enforcement action. In December 2011, Covington successfully sought an injunction to stop the MCSO from detaining any person based solely on a belief that the person is unlawfully present in the United States. The court also certified the class to include all Latino persons driving or sitting in a vehicle on Maricopa County's public roadways or parking areas who have been or will be stopped by the MCSO, and assessed adverse inference sanctions against the MCSO's failure to preserve relevant evidence. Finally the court denied a defense motion for summary judgment on the equal protection claims, indicating that sufficient evidence of racial profiling had been provided to withstand a summary judgment motion. A week prior to the court's ruling, the U.S. Department of Justice separately issued its own findings that the MCSO had engaged in racial profiling, citing some of the same documentation and testimony as presented in the motions Covington filed in the lawsuit.

Release of Former Mississippi Death Row Inmate. In 2006, we began representing Cory Maye, a Mississippi death row inmate convicted of murdering a police officer. Mr. Maye was at his home in Prentiss, Mississippi, in 2001, when police officers entered in the middle of the night during a "wrong door" raid. Believing the police officers were intruders, Mr. Maye shot to defend himself and his sleeping family. During a racially and politically charged trial, Mr. Maye was not permitted to offer this defense. Working with a Mississippi public defender, Covington represented Mr. Maye in seeking to set aside his death sentence and to be granted a new trial. After 10 years in prison, Mr. Maye was released in July 2011.

Advocacy to Prevent and End Homelessness. For over 20 years, we have worked with the National Law Center on Homelessness and Poverty (NLCHP), an organization established in 1989 to prevent and end homelessness by serving as the legal arm of a nationwide social movement. In 1987, we led a legislative effort to secure enactment of the McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act. Title V of that Act provides that excess, surplus, unutilized or underutilized federal property must be made available to assist homeless persons. Through Title V, more than 50 formerly surplus federal properties have been transformed into homeless shelters and transitional housing, or have been used to house non-profit organizations aimed to serve homeless populations. Each year, more than 2.4 million Americans benefit from assistance provided through Title V-awarded properties. In 2011, the Department of Justice moved to vacate a 1993 consent decree which ordered the government to comply with the McKinney-Vento Act. In response, the firm engaged to represent NLCHP and other homeless advocacy groups to defend against the Government's motion - an effort critical to sustaining the hard-won successes of the McKinney-Vento Act. We have also assisted NLCHP with respect to legislation that might undermine Title V. In the last few years, we also supported NLCHP's work by identifying possible legal challenges to the criminalization of homelessness, providing advice and legislative advocacy on issues relating to homeless children, and advising on the scope and application of the McKinney-Vento Act with respect to threatened changes to the statute.

Assistance to Veterans Seeking Compensation for Combat-Related Injuries. In 2008, Congress modified the Combat-Related Special Compensation (CRSC) program, under 10 U.S.C. §1413a, to authorize additional disability compensation for military retirees with less than 20 years of service who had a combat-related disability. This program requires veterans to submit an application supported by evidence from military and Veterans Administration records proving that the veterans have one or more significant disabilities caused during or in connection with armed combat. Together with the National Veterans Legal Services Program, a number of Covington attorneys have been assisting veterans injured in Iraq and Afghanistan with their CRSC applications. We have had great success in obtaining CRSC compensation for our clients.

Supporting Solar Energy and Social Enterprise. Covington attorneys have long been assisting SolarAid, a UK-based charity which seeks to tackle both poverty and climate change by harnessing the power of the sun—making solar energy available to rural areas across Africa. More recently, Covington has embarked on a restructuring of SolarAid's "SunnyMoney" social enterprise, which will involve the formation of a microfinance venture in the United Kingdom, Kenya, Malawi, Tanzania and Zambia. SunnyMoney trains local entrepreneurs to manage their own businesses selling portable solar lights that will bring light to the poor while also creating jobs and offering an alternative to costly and polluting kerosene lighting. The aim of the restructuring is to allow SunnyMoney to develop independent and sustainable operations that will attract support from private donors as well as social investors. In connection with the restructuring and SolarAid's operations, the firm provides legal advice on a wide range of corporate, tax, intellectual property and employment matters.

Protecting Refugees. Attorneys throughout the firm have assisted refugees with attaining asylum in the United States. Our clients have fled from political, religious, ethnic, gender-based and sexual orientation-based persecution in countries plagued by human rights violations. In 2011, the firm worked on over 28 asylum or convention against torture matters for nationals of over 16 countries, including Chad, Sudan, Democratic Republic of Congo, Kenya, Burkina Faso, Guatemala, El Salvador, Afghanistan, Kuwait, Iraq and Iran. In 2011, 10 of the firm's clients were granted asylum. Sanctuary for Families recognized the firm with its 2011 "Above and Beyond Award" for our work on behalf of a Burkina Faso national, who feared that her daughters would be subject to female genital mutilation.

Challenge to Racial Profiling in New York City. Together with the Center for Constitutional Rights and Beldock Levine, Covington continues to represent the plaintiffs in a federal class action lawsuit against the New York City Police Department (NYPD) and the City of New York. The case, Floyd, et al. v. City of New York, et al., challenges the NYPD's practices of racial profiling and unconstitutional stop-and-frisks. These NYPD practices have led to a dramatic increase in the number of suspicionless stop-and-frisks per year in the city, with the majority of stops in communities of color. For example, in 2011, a record 684,330 people were stopped in New York City, 87 percent of whom were Black and Latino residents — although they each comprise only about a quarter of New York City's total population. In 2011, the City of New York filed a motion for summary judgment, which Covington vigorously opposed and we eventually won a full denial of the motion. Our motion for class certification has been submitted and is currently pending. The issue has spurred increased interest by lawmakers in stop-and-frisk policies, as state legislators in Albany have begun proposing bills to address the problem. In addition, Covington garnered support from the New York City Council's Black, Latino and Asian Caucus, comprised of 27 of the 51 members of the New York City Council, who filed an amicus brief in support of our motion for class certification in which the caucus highlighted the need for judicial intervention to put an end to the NYPD's practices. Over the past year, the case has generated significant media attention, including articles and an op-ed in the New York Times and a spotlight on CNN.

Guantánamo Detainees. Covington has been involved in Guantánamo-related litigation for the past eight years and currently represents 13 detainees, none of whom has been charged with any crimes. The firm obtained favorable rulings in habeas cases on behalf of five detainees at Guantánamo. The government released one of these men, Mohamed Mohamed Hassan Odaini. Following his high school graduation in Yemen in 2001 at the age of 17, Odaini went to Pakistan to continue his education. There, a fellow student invited him to dinner at a house near the school. On the night of the dinner, the house was raided by Pakistani authorities who arrested every foreigner in the house and later turned them over to the United States. The young man was subsequently taken to Guantánamo. In granting habeas corpus in May 2010, Judge Henry Kennedy of the U.S. Court for the District of Columbia found that the government had not come close to meeting its burden of proving that Odaini's detention was lawful. In his comprehensive 36-page opinion, Judge Kennedy wrote: "Respondents have kept a young man from Yemen in detention in Cuba from age eighteen to age twenty-six. They have prevented him from seeing his family and denied him the opportunity to complete his studies and embark on a career. The evidence before the Court shows that holding Odaini in custody at such great cost to him has done nothing to make the United States more secure. There is no evidence that Odaini has any connection to Al Qaeda. Consequently, his detention is not authorized by the [Authorization for the Use of Military Force Act]." The firm continues to represent its detainee clients in the federal district court for the District of Columbia, the U.S. Court of Appeals for the D.C. Circuit, and the Supreme Court. In 2011 we prepared petitions for certiorari to the Supreme Court on behalf of three of our individual clients, argued five cases in the court of appeals, and had a rehearing of one client's case in district court. In addition to the ongoing habeas proceedings, our efforts have included: acting as co-counsel in Boumediene v. Bush, 553 U.S. 723 (2008), which held that the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus extends to detainees held at Guantanamo Bay; filing amicus briefs and coordinating the amicus effort in Hamdan v. Rumsfeld, 548 U.S. 557 (2006); and advocating on behalf of our clients' rights to obtain exculpatory evidence from the government, to be told of the allegations against them, and to confront their accusers.

Sanctuary for Families - R.D. We successfully represented our client in her asylum application before the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services. We were also honored to receive the "Above & Beyond" award from Sanctuary for Families for our work on this matter.

Southern Poverty Law Center - Nunag-Tanedo, et al. v. East Baton Rouge Parish School Board, et al. The firm is co-counsel with the Southern Poverty Law Center and the American Federation of Teachers in litigation on behalf of a class of more than 350 Filipino teachers who were recruited to work at Louisiana public schools. The lawsuit, filed in the United States District Court for the Central District of California, alleges that the teachers were trafficked into the United States through acts of fraud, extortion and other unlawful conduct. It asserts claims under the Trafficking Victims Protection Act, RICO, and applicable state law against a number of defendants. In December 2011, the court granted plaintiffs' class certification motion. Trial is currently scheduled for July 2012.

Third Circuit Appointment - A.V. The firm represented Mr. V., a Honduran national imprisoned in the United States following a criminal conviction, in an appeal to the Third Circuit from a decision of the Board of Immigration Appeals denying his application for withholding of removal. Based on a showing under Leslie v. Attorney General, 611 F.3d 171, 182-183 (3d Cir. 2010), that Mr. V. had not been informed of the availability of legal services as required by 8 C.F.R. § 1240.10(a), and had been prejudiced thereby, we secured governmental agreement to the filing of a joint motion for remand to the Board for further proceedings in accordance with the applicable rule, which was granted by the Third Circuit, and compiled and provided relevant records and information to counsel for Mr. V. in subsequent proceedings.

Third Circuit Appointment - M.G. The firm successfully represented Mr. G. in proceedings before the Immigration Court on remand from the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, and from the Board of Immigration Appeals. Mr. G. is a native and citizen of Iran who came to the United States in 1974 and became a lawful permanent resident in 1978. In 2003, the Government initiated removal proceedings against Mr. G., who then applied for protection under the Convention Against Torture (CAT), arguing that he likely would be tortured if returned to his home country, because he had converted to Christianity and had been an outspoken critic of Iran's Islamic fundamentalist regime. An immigration judge denied Mr. G.'s application and the Board of Immigration Appeals affirmed the decision. However, the Third Circuit was persuaded by Covington's briefs and ruled to block Mr. G.'s deportation to Iran. On remand, after briefing and a hearing to update the evidence of record, the Immigration Court granted Mr. G. deferral of removal under the CAT.

Whitman-Walker Legal Services - A.C. We successfully obtained asylum for Mr. C., an El Salvadoran national.

Y.H. We represent Y.H. in her application to become a legal permanent resident of the United States.

CIVIL RIGHTS/CIVIL LIBERTIES

American Civil Liberties Union - C. and D.H. The firm has been representing, as co-counsel with the ACLU, a proposed class of students at Forest Hills Academy, a publicly funded but, at the time the action was commenced, privately operated alternative school in Atlanta, Georgia, to enjoin violations of their Fourth and Fourteenth Amendment rights. The case was settled in 2010 and an order was entered providing for dismissal of the action after a period during which ACLU monitored the Atlanta Independent School District's compliance with the settlement. We filed a motion to extend the date that the case was to be dismissed after such monitoring pending review of independent allegations of wrongdoing on the part of the District. ACLU consults with us from time to time in that regard.

American Civil Liberties Union - Ortega Melendres v. Arpaio. We represent a class of Latino persons injured by a pattern and practice of racial profiling and other racially discriminatory acts committed by a county sheriff's office. The lawsuit seeks declaratory and injunctive relief to ensure that such behavior will not recur.

Campaign for All DC Families. On March 3, 2010, pursuant to legislation passed by the D.C. Council and signed by the Mayor, the District became one of a growing number of jurisdictions to issue marriage licenses to same-sex couples. After incorporating and seeking tax exempt status for the Campaign for All DC Families, an umbrella organization of more than 20 national and local civil rights groups, the firm represented the Campaign in opposing a Washington D.C. ballot initiative, which sought to rescind D.C.'s recognition of same-sex marriages. On behalf of the Campaign and several other clients, the firm submitted amicus briefs, including before the D.C. Court of Appeals, in support of the D.C. Board of Elections and Ethics' authority to preclude initiatives that violate the District's Human Rights Act. The firm represented four same-sex couples -- including one of the first couples to celebrate their marriage in the District under the new law -- and several organizations: the Campaign for All D.C. Families, D.C. Clergy United (an interfaith group of more than 100 Christian, Jewish and Islamic clergy leaders), and Lambda Legal Defense and Education Fund. In a 5-4 decision authored by Judge Phyllis Thompson, the D.C. Court of Appeals upheld long-established D.C. law that bars ballot initiatives that would allow a majority to discriminate against minorities by popular vote. In reaching its decision, the Court placed significant emphasis on the legislative history which had featured prominently throughout Covington's briefs at various stages in the case. The Supreme Court denied the initiative proponents' petition for certiorari in January 2011, marking the conclusion of the litigation.

Catholics for Equality. This new, national organization supports marriage equality for same-sex couples. We have assisted with its incorporation, and we are helping it prepare applications for tax-exempt status.

Center for Constitutional Rights - Floyd, et al. v. City of New York, et al. The firm is serving as co-counsel, with the Center for Constitutional Rights, to the plaintiffs in a proposed class against the City of New York and individual members of the New York Police Department alleging that the NYPD's stop-and-frisk policies and practices violate the Fourth Amendment and the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment and seeking injunctive relief.

City and County of San Francisco. We represented the City and County of San Francisco, Central City SRO Collaborative, San Francisco Tenants Union, and Housing Rights Committee of San Francisco in challenging the United States Postal Service's procedure for delivering mail to residents who live in Single Room Occupancy ("SRO") buildings. The Postal Service refuses to deliver mail to individual mailboxes at SROs, instead dropping the mail at a "single point." But, the Postal Service delivers mail to individual mailboxes for residents of apartment buildings. Applying rational basis review, and after intensive discovery, the Court granted summary judgment in favor of the Postal Service. We also pursued a complaint before the Postal Regulatory Commission, which is still pending.

DC Employment Justice Center - A.G.B. et al. We represent clients in a wage theft matter.

Georgetown University Law Center - Appellate Litigation Clinic - F.H. We represent F.H. in Section 1983 litigation against a Maryland police officer alleging excessive force in violation of the Fourth Amendment after the police officer shot our client instead of using his Taser.

Human Rights Campaign. The firm represented the Human Rights Campaign in support of the Religious Freedom and Civil Marriage Equality Amendment Act of 2009 and in opposition to legal efforts to force a popular vote on marriage equality in the District of Columbia. After the D.C. Court of Appeals ruled that such a vote was not permitted under the District's Human Rights Act, HRC honored Covington with its "Ally of Justice" award for the firm's contributions to the LGBT community through pro bono work and other service.

Southern Center for Human Rights - Estate of E.G. The question presented is whether the Alabama survivorship statute, Ala. Code 6-5-462, which provides for the abatement upon death of all unfiled Section 1983 claims (other than claims based on wrongful death), is inconsistent with the Constitution and laws of the United States.

Urban Justice Center - Thong v. Lovely Nails. Together with the Urban Justice Center, we represent three former nail salon workers in an hours and wages claim brought under the Fair Labor Standards Act and NY state labor laws, against the owners of a nail salon on Long Island, NY. The complaint, filed in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York, alleges that the salon's owners and operators failed to pay our clients overtime compensation, spread of hours compensation, and minimum wages. During the employer's deposition, Plaintiffs learned for the first time that the employer had transferred all interests in the nail business to an associate the day before the deposition. As a result, the employer claimed to be judgment proof. Covington amended the complaint to assert new fraudulent conveyance claims against the transferee. The transferee moved to dismiss. The court denied the transferee's motion to dismiss in its entirety. The defendant salon owner recently filed a petition requesting a Chapter 7 bankruptcy discharge. Covington appeared before the Bankruptcy Trustee on behalf of its clients as creditors and, together with bankruptcy co-counsel Stroock & Stroock, filed an adversarial complaint in the United States Bankruptcy Court for the District of New Jersey seeking that the debtor be denied a discharge or, alternatively, that our clients' claims be excluded from any discharge. Discovery recently commenced in the adversarial proceedings.

Washington Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs - Minneci v. Pollard. We filed an amicus brief on behalf of the American Civil Liberties Union, the Washington Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and the Legal Aid Society of New York in the U.S. Supreme Court in support of the respondent federal prisoner's Bivens claim in Minneci v. Pollard. Our brief argued that the reasoning underlying Bivens supports recognition of a federal prisoner's Eighth Amendment Bivens claim against individual employees of a private federal prison contractor. In addition, the brief explained the overwhelming burden denial of a federal damage claim would impose upon lower federal courts, which would be required to disentangle and decide complicated and ever-changing questions of state tort law. Finally, our brief described the deplorable conditions characteristic of private prison facilities and the resulting need for federal protection. Oral argument was held on November 1, 2011. The Supreme Court issued a decision in favor of the Petitioner private prison contractor in January 2012.

Washington Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs - NAACP/Atlantic Beach Bikefest Litigation. We represent the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) and individual plaintiffs in race discrimination lawsuits against two Myrtle Beach restaurants. The Public Defender Service for the District of Columbia - Oak Hill. We serve as co-counsel with the D.C. Public Defender Service and the ACLU National Prison Project in the 25-year old "Jerry M" litigation, seeking to remedy conditions in the District of Columbia's juvenile corrections system. We moved for the appointment of a receiver to run the city's Youth Services Administration, but then in lieu of a receiver agreed to a "work plan" process in which both sides agree upon reform efforts under the aegis of a Special Arbiter. The work plan process has resulted in the appointment of a progressive juvenile justice administration that has made considerable progress toward reforming the system. We have negotiated the terms of exit criteria that will terminate the lawsuit upon the achievement of agreed performance measures, and the court has approved them. We have also lobbied the D.C. Council for legislative reforms of the juvenile justice system. A new model juvenile facility, a keystone of the work plan's requirements, opened in April 2009. Although there are substantial challenges, we are hopeful that progress will continue in the administration of Mayor Gray.

Third Circuit Appointment - C.H. We represent Pennsylvania inmate C.H. before the Middle District of Pennsylvania in his 1983 action against prison officials for denying him timely and effective health care. We previously represented Mr. H. as appointed counsel in his appeal before the Third Circuit.

Washington Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs - R.G. We represent plaintiff R.G., a prisoner in the custody of the United States Bureau of Prisons (BOP), who was assaulted by fellow inmates and a BOP officer in retaliation for his cooperation in the investigation of a BOP officer. The suit was brought in the United States District Court for the Northern District of Georgia seeking injunctive relief requiring that measures be taken to protect the client as well as damages against a BOP officer.

CRIMINAL DEFENSE AND REFORM

B.F. In 2005, the firm began representing a former West Virginia University student who was convicted of murdering a fellow student in 2002. No eyewitness ever identified our client as the shooter and no direct physical evidence linked him to the murder. Two and a half months into the police investigation of the shooting, a woman reported to the police that another man had confessed to it in the presence of her and two other women. On the day the prosecution secured an indictment against our client, the police first talked to the suspect reported to have confessed. One week later, the police administered a polygraph examination to this suspect and reported that he had truthfully denied involvement in the shooting. After making a pre-trial request for exculpatory evidence, trial counsel learned of these events but did nothing to investigate the alternative suspect. The State prevailed at trial by presenting circumstantial evidence and hearsay statements by the victim's fraternity brothers. Trial counsel's sole defense theory was that another person committed the murder; however, he did not present evidence of another suspect. The firm took over the representation after our client's state-level appeals had been exhausted. In 2006, we filed a state petition for habeas corpus, alleging ineffective assistance for failing to investigate the alternative suspect. After our petition was denied at the trial level, we secured a reversal from the West Virginia Supreme Court of Appeals, which remanded for an evidentiary hearing. Limited post-remand discovery has now revealed that the alternative suspect in fact failed the polygraph, and that the original defense lawyer failed to investigate based on his mistaken belief that the suspect had passed the polygraph. In late 2010, we secured the removal of the trial court judge on grounds of bias and a new judge has been assigned to the case. An evidentiary hearing was held in this case from September 20-22, 2011. Paul Schmidt, Sarah Wilson, and our former associate Sarah Frederick, now at Goodwin and Proctor in Boston, argued persuasively on behalf of Mr. F. We expect a decision in late spring or over the summer.

M.S. The firm represents Ms. S. in a habeas action. Ms. S. was in an abusive marriage and was convicted as an accomplice to a murder committed by her husband. Ms. S. is serving a sentence of 50 years to life. The firm has filed a federal habeas petition on her behalf based on the fact that the client was an abused spouse whose trial counsel failed to effectively present evidence of the threats and violence she suffered at the hands of her husband, allowing the prosecution to successfully undermine her duress defense and portray her as a killer. At the husband's trial, the prosecution changed its story about the client, describing her as another of her husband's victims and essentially characterizing her as incapable of exercising independent judgment.

The case was argued before a panel in October 2010. In March 2011, the panel denied the relief sought in our client's appeal as well as a petition for rehearing en banc.

Washington Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs - Criminal Justice Report. We will prepare a report on the causes of incarceration in the District of Columbia and potential ways to address the problem, including post-incarceration challenges.

Washington Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs - DC Prisoners' Parole Representation Project. Since 2009, Covington attorneys have represented almost 40 District of Columbia offenders incarcerated in Federal prisons throughout the United States in connection with new parole hearings granted to them pursuant to the holding of the U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia in Sellmon v Riley, 551 F. Supp. 2d 66 (D. D.C. 2008). In Sellmon, the Court held that the U.S. Parole Commission's practice of applying Federal parole guidelines, rather than the District of Columbia parole guidelines (in force as of the prisoner's date of offense), constituted an impermissible ex post facto extension of the term of imprisonment. Over 25 Covington attorneys have assisted DC prisoners in their parole cases before the U.S. Parole Commission under the newly applicable parole guidelines. Firm lawyers have also represented DC offenders in appealing adverse parole decisions to the U.S. Parole Commission. Since 2009, Covington has represented 37 DC prisoners at 14 correctional facilities around the country before U.S. Parole Commission hearing examiners. We have helped to obtain paroles in 23 of those cases.

DEATH PENALTY

Alphonso Morris. The firm is representing Mr. Morris in the appeal of his murder conviction and death sentence. Mr. Morris was referred to Covington by the Equal Justice Initiative.

Anthony Tyson. We represent Anthony Tyson in post-conviction litigation challenging his murder conviction and death sentence in Alabama. Mr. Tyson was referred to the firm by the ABA Death Penalty Representation Project.

Cory Maye. The firm represented Cory Maye in his appeal of his conviction for capital murder in the death of a police officer. Working with a Mississippi public defender, Bob Evans, Covington succeeded in having the trial judge vacate Mr. Maye's death sentence following hearings in September and December 2006, on our motion for a new trial. Mr. Maye was asleep in his home in Prentiss, Mississippi, in 2001 when local police officers arrived to serve search warrants at his home and that of the adjoining duplex. Mr. Maye awoke, and believing that the police officers were intruders, he loaded his weapon and lay at the foot of the bed on which his infant daughter lay sleeping. A police officer kicked in an exterior door to the bedroom, and Mr. Maye shot and killed the police officer who entered his home. Represented by another lawyer, he was tried for the murder of a police officer, and sentenced to death. In December, 2006, the trial judge agreed with Covington's argument that Mr. Maye's trial counsel provided ineffective assistance during the sentencing phase of the trial, and vacated the death sentence. The trial judge denied the firm's motion for judgment notwithstanding the verdict, however, or for a new guilt phase of the trial, and sentenced Mr. Maye to life in prison without the possibility of parole. Working with Mr. Evans, the firm filed the opening brief in the direct appeal of Mr. Maye's conviction in October 2008. After oral argument, the court sua sponte decided to consider the case en banc. Then in the fall of 2009, the full court ruled 6-2 that Mr. Maye is entitled to a new trial. The Court ruled that Mr. Maye was denied his right to be tried in Jefferson Davis county, where the offense occurred and that the trial court had improperly rejected his attempt to withdraw a prior motion to transfer venue. The State appealed this ruling to the Supreme Court of Mississippi. In December 2010, the Supreme Court ruled en banc that Mr. Maye was entitled to a new trial, on the grounds that the trial court improperly denied Mr. Maye's requested defense-of-others jury instruction. The Covington team subsequently helped secure a reduced charge for Mr. Maye. Mr. Maye entered a guilty plea of the lesser charge of negligent homicide in exchange for a 10-year prison sentence. With credit for time already served, Mr. Maye was released from prison shortly after entering the plea.

Edward Russell DuBose. In 1991, Mr. DuBose was referred to Covington by the Alabama Capital Representation Resource Center (now known as the Equal Justice Initiative). In the early 1990s, we won a reversal of Russell DuBose's conviction and sentence of death for the capital murder of a young woman based on a claim of denial of due process and the right to counsel arising from the State of Alabama's refusal to provide Mr. DuBose with a DNA expert. On remand, we persuaded the State to offer Mr. DuBose a sentence of life with possibility of parole in exchange for a plea of guilty to simple (non-capital) murder. After a number of delays, Mr. DuBose has had two parole hearings. Although parole has thus far been denied, we understand that this may be a long process and we look forward to Mr. DuBose's next opportunity for parole. In the meantime, we have responded to requests for assistance by Mr. DuBose regarding his conditions of confinement.

Garrett Dotch. The firm is representing Mr. Dotch in a collateral appeal challenging his death penalty conviction. The firm previously represented Mr. Dotch in his direct appeals. Mr. Dotch was referred to Covington by the Equal Justice Initiative.

Gregory Robinson. Mr. Robinson was convicted of first degree murder and sentenced to death in 1998 and is now seeking post-conviction relief in Tennessee state court. We collaborated with the Tennessee Office of the Post-Conviction Defender (TOPCD) in filing an amended petition for post-conviction relief and assisted TOPCD with a lengthy evidentiary hearing on certain issues in late 2009 and early 2010. The trial court denied relief. With support from TOPCD, we are now taking the lead on Mr. Robinson's appeal to the Tennessee Court of Criminal Appeals and filed a 155-page opening appeal brief on his behalf in December 2011.

Jerry Layne Rogers. Jerry Layne Rogers was convicted of capital murder and sentenced to death by the State of Florida in 1984. We have represented him since 1995 in seeking to overturn his conviction and sentence. We went through an arduous post-conviction process aimed at establishing a Brady violation based on police reports and other information withheld from the defense at trial. We also pursued separate challenges to three other robbery convictions that had been used against Mr. Rogers in his murder trial as substantive evidence of his guilt in the murder case and to support his death sentence. In February 2001, the Florida Supreme Court reversed Mr. Rogers's 1984 murder conviction, accepting our argument that the prosecution had violated Brady by withholding several key pieces of evidence from the defense. The Florida Supreme Court remanded for a new trial on the murder charge. Our team defended Mr. Rogers through a two-week trial in the summer of 2002. Although the jury returned a guilty verdict, it recommended a life sentence, which the judge imposed. We appealed the guilty verdict to Florida's Fifth District Court of Appeal, which affirmed the conviction. We filed a jurisdictional brief with the Florida Supreme Court in order to challenge the Fifth District's ruling, but the court declined to take jurisdiction. We fully briefed a habeas petition, which was before the United States District Court for the Middle District of Florida. The habeas petition was denied and our request for a certificate of appealability was denied by the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals. We simultaneously worked to establish Mr. Rogers's parole eligibility by, inter alia, preparing a motion for the trial court that oversaw Mr. Rogers's 2002 conviction, seeking credit for time served by Mr. Rogers between the 1984 and 2002 convictions. The motion was denied by the trial court in 2007 and the Fifth District affirmed the trial court's decision in 2008. We currently are working to prepare a clemency petition for a commutation of sentence for Mr. Rogers and evaluating Mr. Rogers's claims under section 1983 of title 42 of the U.S. Code.

Larry Smith. Larry Smith was convicted and sentenced to death for murder in Alabama. Despite numerous irregularities, including a trial attorney who conducted virtually no investigation pretrial, who failed to call alibi witnesses during trial, and who presented little or no mitigating evidence during the sentencing phase, the Alabama appellate courts upheld Mr. Smith's conviction and death sentence. The evidence against Mr. Smith at trial was remarkably thin; the State's case hinged principally on a highly suspect confession. Despite the weak evidence, Mr. Smith's trial counsel made almost no effort to prepare the case. Covington filed a state habeas petition alleging, among other claims, ineffective assistance provided by his trial counsel. Over the next five years, an extensive investigation, involving interviews of over 100 witnesses, was conducted. The extraordinary efforts of our investigator in picking up the trail of a murder that had been committed eight years before led to the identification of numerous favorable witnesses never approached by trial counsel. At the same time, Covington's team successfully resisted several motions to dismiss brought by the State addressing the critical ineffective assistance of counsel claims contained in the petition. A three-day hearing was finally held on the petition in November of 2006 before Judge David Evans of the Circuit Court of Marshall County, Alabama. Thirteen witnesses testified, including two experts on the subjects of police procedures and false confessions. Following the hearing, our team submitted an 80-page proposed order, drawing extensively on the record, that demonstrated why Mr. Smith was entitled to a new trial. In January 2007, the Court issued an order granting a new trial. The Court's order adopted almost verbatim the proposal that Covington submitted. The Court found that "[h]ad [trial] counsel effectively represented Mr. Smith, the case presented to the jury would have looked very different." In August 2007, the State appealed to the Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals, arguing principally that the Circuit Court distorted the legal standard of ineffective assistance and abused its discretion as the finder of fact. But in October 2010, in a comprehensive opinion, the Court of Criminal Appeals unanimously affirmed the circuit court's order granting Mr. Smith a new trial. The State petitioned the Alabama Supreme Court for certiorari, but its petition was denied in December 2011, requiring the State to either release Mr. Smith or provide him a new trial. As preparations for Mr. Smith's retrial were underway, discussions began with the State about a possible plea agreement. Those discussions ultimately led to Mr. Smith pleading guilty to a charge of conspiracy to commit robbery while armed. The murder charge was dropped. At a hearing on April 6, 2012, the trial judge accepted the plea and sentenced Mr. Smith to time already served. Mr. Smith was released from prison approximately one hour later. Mr. Smith was referred to Covington by the Equal Justice Initiative.

Merrit Alonzo Sims. Merrit Alonzo Sims was sentenced to death in 1994 after being convicted of first-degree murder of a Florida police officer. We filed a motion for post-conviction relief, on the grounds that Mr. Sims' trial counsel provided ineffective assistance at various points during his trial. Between February 2003 and July 2006, we represented Mr. Sims in two separate multi-day evidentiary hearings on certain of his ineffective-assistance claims. In July 2007, after two rounds of briefing and two oral arguments before the Florida Supreme Court, the Court unanimously vacated Mr. Sims' convictions and sentence, on the grounds that his trial counsel's errors deprived Mr. Sims of his constitutional right to adequate representation at the guilt/innocence-phase of his trial. On remand, we assisted the Capital Litigation Unit of the Miami Office of the Public Defender in representing Mr. Sims. In 2011, following extensive negotiations with the State, Mr. Sims was allowed to plead guilty to a lesser non-capital offense and was sentenced to a term of years guaranteeing him his release from prison by no later than age 70.

Ruben Garza. We represent Ruben Garza in post-conviction proceedings in the Superior Court of Arizona, Maricopa County, appealing his conviction and death sentence. Mr. Garza was referred to Covington by the ABA Death Penalty Representation Project.

Wakili Brown. Since 2009, the firm has represented Mr. Wakili Brown, an inmate at Holman Correctional Facility in Atmore, Alabama, in the direct appeal of his 2008 criminal murder conviction and sentence of death. Mr. Brown was referred to Covington by the Equal Justice Initiative. After full briefing and oral argument in 2009, the Alabama Court of Criminal Appeals affirmed Mr. Brown's conviction and sentence. After granting in part Mr. Brown's Petition for Writ of Certiorari in January 2011, the Supreme Court of Alabama also confirmed Mr. Brown's conviction and sentence in June 2011. Subsequently, in January 2012, The Supreme Court of the United States denied Mr. Brown's Cert Petition, and we are currently engaged in investigating and drafting Mr. Brown's state post-conviction, collateral appeal -- a "Rule 32" petition in Alabama practice, which is due in mid-July 2012.

M.R. Mr. R., who lost a leg while serving in the U.S. military during World War II, initially engaged the firm in connection with the decision by U.S. security personnel at the U.S.-Mexico border crossing at San Ysidro to discontinue the practice of maintaining an expedited line for individuals with disabilities and infirmities. We assisted Mr. R. in filing a formal complaint with the Department of Homeland Security alleging violations of the Rehabilitation Act. After much delay, the DHS General Counsel's Office found in favor of Mr. R., and as a result DHS has provided seating and new procedures to accommodate people with disabilities as they cross the border at San Ysidro. Mr. R. subsequently asked Covington to assist in seeking redress of an alleged violation of the Rehabilitation Act at the Otay Mesa border crossing. The essence of Mr. R's complaint is that no provision is made to permit motor vehicles to use a road, now reserved for security purposes, to pick up disabled people exiting the processing building at the border. As a result, both the infirm and the disabled are required to walk the roughly 150 yards to the area where civilian cars are permitted to wait for those crossing the border. Based on its ultimately successful dealings with DHS Office of General Counsel in connection with Mr. R's prior complaint, Covington sent a letter to the Acting Associate General Counsel at DHS, the individual in that office with whom it had dealt previously, describing the problem and inviting DHS to collaborate with Covington and Mr. R in reaching an acceptable accommodation. After an initial meeting with lawyers from both the General Counsel's Office as well as the DHS Office of Civil Rights and Civil Liberties at which the particulars of the issue were explored and possible solutions discussed, the DHS lawyers undertook to determine what solutions might be acceptable to DHS officials with operational responsibilities. Several months later at a meeting with Covington requested by the DHS lawyers, they informed Covington that they had obtained DHS' agreement to allow private vehicles to use the security road to pick up disabled people crossing the border at Otay Mesa. Both Mr. R and Covington had regarded this as the optimal resolution of the matter and were therefore happy to agree to DHS's proposal. At this time, DHS is in the process of implementing this procedure at Otay Mesa.

Washington Lawyers' Committee for Civil Rights and Urban Affairs - Hubbard v. United States Postal Service. In May 2003, we filed a class action complaint in U.S. District Court for the District of Columbia on behalf of Bruce C. Hubbard and other similarly-situated deaf and hearing impaired postal employees against the United States Postal Service (USPS) for its alleged failure to provide qualified sign language interpreters during daily floor meetings in violation of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973. Topics discussed at such meetings include safety, work policies and procedures. It is important for deaf and hearing impaired employees to understand this information if they are to do their jobs safely and effectively. In November 2010, after extensive mediation sessions, the parties achieved agreement in principle on a class wide settlement. USPS will be required to implement major changes and improvements across the agency for deaf and hearing impaired employees, and the agency must pay $3 million in compensatory damages and $1.5 million attorneys' fees and costs. The achievement of this settlement, which is subject to formal judicial approval, will set a precedent for nationwide reforms that will substantially benefit deaf and hearing impaired employees.

EDUCATION

A.M. We represented A.M. and her daughter in an appeal to federal district court of an administrative order denying appropriate compensatory education under the federal Individuals with Disabilities Education Act. This matter was referred to the firm as a result of work done on a similar case. After we filed a motion for summary judgment, the D.C. Public Schools agreed to pay for a very generous package of private tutoring and other educational services to address the daughter's learning disabilities. The District also funds A.M.'s daughter's enrollment at a private therapeutic day school with an academically oriented curriculum that strongly emphasizes social-emotional development. We continue to represent A.M.'s daughter at her Individualized Education Program meetings and we provide her with assistance in securing academic and extracurricular opportunities in order to complement the instruction that she receives at school.

American Civil Liberties Union of the Nation's Capital. Since 2009, Covington has assisted the American Civil Liberties Union of the Nation's Capital (ACLU) in efforts to improve the special education program for juveniles at the Prince George's County Correctional Center (Jail) in Maryland. ACLU engaged Covington after hearing reports about the lack of special education services in the Jail. Covington's investigation revealed faults in the Jail's special education program. Covington filed a complaint with the Maryland State Department of Education (MSDE) on behalf of ACLU, detailing the suspected violations of federal and state law. In December 2010, the MSDE issued a report in which it confirmed that the Jail was noncompliant with federal and state special education laws, and agreed to conduct a statewide monitoring of jails. As a result of Covington's and ACLU's work, the Jail must promptly develop and submit a corrective action plan, document efforts to provide compensatory services to two individuals, and resolve all noncompliance.

M.P.*, No. 10-36065, on behalf of the Council of Parent Attorneys and Advocates, a nonprofit organization advocating for children in special education programs and their families. Our brief argued that M.P., a student in Anchorage public schools, was denied a Free and Appropriate Education (FAPE). A District Court found that the parents, rather than the school district, were at fault for the child's lack of educational progress. As a matter of law, the fact that parents exercised their right to advocate for their child's education should not be determinative of whether or not the school district provided that child a FAPE.

Dixon v. Fenty - Mental Healthcare in D.C. We have represented the plaintiff class in this lawsuit since 1974. The litigation was brought by some 15,000 patients at St. Elizabeth's Hospital to enforce their right under D.C. law to mental health treatment and services in the least restrictive environment. After many years of unsuccessful efforts to prompt the District to comply with a 1980 consent order and implementation plan, the federal court granted our motion for appointment of a receiver to administer the Commission on Mental Health Services in October 1997. This receivership was terminated in 2002, and the parties negotiated exit criteria that would determine when and if the original court orders would be vacated. Dr. Dennis Jones, who has headed up the mental health system of a number of states and who was the Transitional Receiver for a number of years, acted as court monitor. In that position, he reviewed the performance of the new D.C. Department of Mental Health to determine whether the negotiated exit criteria had been or would be met. Under the terms of the 2003 Consent Order, the parties agreed that once the District fully or substantially complied with the exit criteria, the mental health system would be returned to the governance of the District of Columbia Government and the litigation would be dismissed. Relying on a Supreme Court decision handed down in June of 2009, Horne v. Flores, the District filed a motion, in September of 2009, to vacate all active orders and dismiss the suit. Plaintiffs filed an opposition, but reached a Settlement Agreement with the District before the motion was resolved. The Settlement Agreement requires the District to make various improvements to its public mental health system by September 30, 2013. The Court granted final approval of the Settlement Agreement on February 16, 2012. The Dixon case has been dismissed and the firm will continue to monitor compliance with the terms of the Settlement Agreement.

The National Law Center on Homelessness & Poverty was established in 1989 to prevent and end homelessness by serving as the legal arm of the nationwide movement to end homelessness. This past year, the firm researched and summarized cases criminalizing homelessness in connection with the Center's biannual report tracking the escalating trend of the criminalization of homelessness. Arjun Sethi wrote and has published a very well received op-ed on the criminalization of the homeless. We have been assisting the Center on both the litigation and legislative fronts on the right of homeless service providers to claim surplus Federal properties. Many shelters, health facilities and food kitchens are housed in such surplus properties claimed by providers. The Department of Justice filed to lift a 20-year old injunction that compels Federal agencies to inform the Center of surplus properties that have become available. DOJ asserts that the injunction is not needed, but the Center believes the Administration has not been forthcoming about all surplus properties and the injunction is still needed. Georgia Kazakis and her team have fought this DOJ motion, seeking information relating to surplus properties through FOIA filings and discovery. After the DOJ objected to any discovery, our team scored a big victory when Judge Lamberth granted our motion to compel discovery. On the legislative front, we have been assisting the Center on legislation to limit homeless providers' right to claim surplus property. The Administration has proposed vacant property legislation to curtail those rights and we have worked on preserving those rights in various House and Senate bills. We also are supporting the Center in its participation in the D.C. The McKinney-Vento Act is the only major piece of federal legislation which provides housing benefits to the homeless. The litigation is a continuation of the litigation regarding Title V of the Act that was initiated in the late 1980s.

National Law Center on Homelessness & Poverty v. Veterans Administration. This case involves Title V of the McKinney Act, which provides that excess, surplus, unutilized, or underutilized federal property is to be made available to assist homeless persons. In December 1988, we secured for the plaintiffs permanent injunctive relief, as well as further injunctive relief in May 1989, February 1991, and April 1993. In June 2011, the government moved to vacate the Court's most recent injunctive order requiring the government to comply with Title V and its implementing regulations. In order to respond effectively to the motion, we formally requested discovery from the relevant agencies regarding their compliance with Title V. After they refused to provide any discovery, we successfully filed a motion with the court seeking discovery. We also provide advice from time to time regarding the scope and application of the McKinney Act with respect to threatened changes to the Act. While a statute authorized detention of the aliens pending their deportation from the United States, plaintiffs alleged that the deliberate delay of their removal -- and the consequent extension of their detention -- for the purpose of the investigation was not authorized, and violated the Fourth and Fifth Amendments to the Constitution. Plaintiffs also alleged that they were abused by prison guards and officials during their detention, and that this treatment was based on their religion and ethnic group. After extensive discovery including over 100 depositions, in 2009 the United States agreed to a substantial monetary settlement with five plaintiffs. The Society of the Cincinnati, our country's oldest patriotic organization, was founded in 1783 by Generals Washington, Hamilton, von Steuben, Knox, Lafayette and other senior Continental Army officers. It has fourteen constituent societies, one for each of the original 13 states and La Societe des Cincinnati de France. The Society's headquarters at Anderson House in Washington, D.C. include a renowned museum and library devoted to the Revolutionary Era and open to scholars from around the world and other members of the public. It also conducts numerous educational programs focused on the Revolutionary War period and the founding of the United States of America. We have represented the Society for many years on a wide variety of legal matters, beginning with Brice Clagett. George Chester served as the Society's Solicitor General (general counsel) for five years until his retirement from the Firm on October 1, 2011, when he was awarded the Washington-Lafayette Eagle, the Society's highest honor, for his service of the "highest distinction." Bill Skinner, who had been serving as a Counselor to the Society, was thereupon elevated to Solicitor General, being the third straight Covington partner to serve in that capacity for this historic pro bono client. (The Solicitor General supervises a legal team of four Counselors and consults closely whenever necessary with the legal officers of the fourteen constituent societies.)

The Court ruled that their severance pay was "earned" on the date of termination and not on a pro-rata basis over the entire term of their employment. The ruling is the first by a federal appeals court on this issue and should be influential in bankruptcy cases nationwide.

Legal Community Against Violence. We prepared an amicus brief on behalf of Legal Community Against Violence in support of the defendant state officials in *Woollard v. In August 2011, we moved for relief from the automatic stay to allow our clients to continue their prepetition litigation against the debtor. In November, 2011 the Bankruptcy Court granted our motion for relief. ROTATION PROGRAMS

Bread for the City. In February 1999, the firm began a rotation program that allows Covington attorneys to spend fifty percent of their time at Bread for the City (BFTC) handling landlord/tenant cases. To date, 26 attorneys have participated in the rotation. In 2011, Matt Connolly, Brandon Jamison and Neema Trivedi participated in the BFTC rotation.

Children's Law Center. In June 2003 we began a rotation opportunity for an associate and a paralegal to spend six months at the Children's Law Center. The organization represents adoptive parents and custodial parents. To date, 17 attorneys have participated in the rotation. The attorneys who participated in 2011 were Nan Lou, Michelle Morin, and Kate Mueting. The paralegals who participated in 2011 were Samantha Bernstein, Stephanie Ng, Katie Rumbaugh and Andrew Solinger.

Neighborhood Legal Services Program. Under an arrangement established in 1969, the firm assigns a team consisting of two lawyers, a paralegal, and a secretary to work at Neighborhood Legal Services Program (NLSP) full-time for a six-month period. Together with regular NLSP staff members, the Covington team provides legal assistance in civil cases to indigent residents of the District of Columbia. Since its inception, over 190 attorneys have participated in the rotation. The attorneys who participated in 2011 were Christopher Murray, Franciska Coleman, Jim Burke, Dave Gorlin, Peter Colwell and Austin Hampton. Paralegals who participated were Casey Scharf and Stephanie Ng. The firm also funds two Covington & Burling Westwood Fellows. The Fellows are recent graduates of either D.C. law schools or the University of Maryland who work as staff attorneys in NLSP offices.

CHILD WELFARE INITIATIVE

Child Welfare Initiative. Early in 1996, Covington responded to a call for increased pro bono involvement from the chief judges in the D.C. courts and from the D.C. Bar. The firm created the Child Welfare Initiative to help increase representation of children and children's issues in the District. We explored several areas of involvement: a rotation program, an increased docket of custody and adoption cases, impact litigation, and legislative efforts. As a result of these endeavors the firm:

- Created a rotation program, currently with the Children's Law Center, to which we send an attorney and a paralegal for six-month rotations to handle custody and adoption cases.
- Pledged to handle an increased number of custody and adoption cases within the firm.
- Drafted legislation to improve D.C.'s Child Welfare laws.

In 2011, Covington continued its commitment to children's issues through its rotation program at the Children's Law Center, its representation of numerous schools and nonprofit organizations working for children, its large number of custody, adoption and other family law matters, and its continued relationship with Cardozo Senior High School.

EDUCATION OUTREACH

Cardozo Saturday Academy. On Saturdays during the school year, a number of Cardozo Senior High School students attend the Saturday Academy at Covington where firm personnel offer enrichment courses and occasional field trips. The program is run by Hattie Blackshire with the help of Covington staff and attorneys. Each Spring Semester, Saturday Academy conducts a mock trial in which students familiarize themselves with legal terminology and learn to craft arguments. The students also attend the annual DC citywide mock trial competition which informs their experience at Saturday Academy. Saturday Academy also includes presentations on topics such as budgeting and basic personal finance, writing resumes and preparation for job interviews. Outside guests were also invited to speak about environmental, legal, entrepreneurial and military topics.

Cardozo Senior High School Project. In February 1992, the firm formed a partnership with Cardozo Senior High School, a public school with an ethnically diverse student body located, like Covington, in the heart of downtown Washington, D.C. In the past school year the firm sponsored food for the staff and families at various times including the days that the school had parent teacher conferences. In the past, Covington has hired students for summer work and a few have continued in full-time positions with the firm after graduation from Cardozo.

Covington & Burling Public School Project, Inc. The firm incorporated and obtained a section 501(c)(3) tax exemption, and provides continuing advice and support, for this organization, which is administered by employees and partners of the firm and accepts donations for the support of the D.C. public schools. In 2011, the Board of Directors applied for and received a grant from the George Preston Marshall Foundation to supplement donations. As a result, the Public School Project was able to disburse over $8,700 in grants in the 2011-2012 school year.

D.C. Street Law Program. Each year, District of Columbia high school Street Law classes participate in a citywide mock trial competition. Students are paired with law firms to prepare for the competition and provide the students a chance to familiarize themselves with law firms and the work that lawyers do. In keeping with our partnership with Cardozo Senior High School, a team of Covington Lawyers works with the students over the course of two months. Just prior to the actual competition, the firm hosted a practice session where the students were filmed practicing in a moot courtroom and had the opportunity to review their performance at the firm over lunch. In 2010, the Cardozo team made it to the final round of the competition for the first time.

Maureen Shaffer Scholarships. Each semester, Covington support staff who have been at the firm full-time for a minimum of two years are eligible to apply for scholarship assistance to any two- or four-year accredited school of their choice. The scholarship was initiated to honor a former personnel director of the firm. In 2011, the firm awarded 7 scholarships.

Neighborhood Legal Services Program - Howard C. Westwood Fellowships. In 1991 the firm created a Fellowship Program to help alleviate the severe under-staffing problem at Neighborhood Legal Services Program (NLSP). Each year, the firm funds two graduates of District of Columbia-area law schools for one-year assignments at NLSP offices. The Fellowships are named in memory of a Covington partner who was instrumental in the formation of the legal services program both locally and nationally. These fellowships have spawned the public service legal careers of a number of new lawyers in the District of Columbia.

University of the District of Columbia - Charles A. Horsky Scholarships. The firm has endowed four full scholarships to the University of the District of Columbia in honor of deceased partner Charlie Horsky, who was instrumental in founding the University.
